Employees supporting transfer and non-trad students

10/22/2024

Many allies stand ready to help two very special groups of students who have taken a different path to arriving at SUNY Cortland to earn their bachelor's degrees.

Greg Diller, coordinator of transition programs, said the university ran a campaign for students to recognize transfer and non-traditional student advocates who have made an impact on the transition to Cortland.

In total, 20 employees have assisted in some way or another the estimated 550 to 600 transfer student who this academic year will take the plunge of changing their school to Cortland.

Another eight personnel have focused positive attention on those arriving on campus as one among the roughly 200 non-traditional students, defined by the university as undergraduates who are 24 years of age or older or, regardless of age, may have dependent children, be working full-time, have military experience or have made a break in education at some point after high school.

More News

SUNY Cortland academic to lead literacy journal

[/news/de
id=a96198

Two extraordinary, helpful faculty members impacted both transfers and non-trads, Helene Schmid and Isa Jubran.

The recognized transfer advocates also include Abigail Droge, Amber Pakkala, Axel Norbo, Tracy Trachsler, Elizabeth McCarthy, Floradell Clarke, Giovanni Dettori, Diller, Jose Ortiz, Judy Stoddard, Kacy Vaughan, Karen Defoe, Karen Downey, Katie Ducett, Maranda Souva, Naomi Catello and Renee Potter.

Also honored for their support of non-traditional students are Anne Burns Thomas, Charlene Cornwell, Cali Young, Jason Page, Scott Stull and Kate McCormick.

SUNY Cortland is recognizing these two unique undergraduate student groups this week during Transfer and Non-Traditional Student Week from Oct. 21 to 25, when many activities are offered [https://www2.cortland.edu/news/transfer-and-non-trad-students-to-be-honored-week-of-oct-21] to engage the campus community.

Literacy Department faculty are welcoming submittals for the upcoming edition of The Language and Literacy Spectrum.

Remembe Regina Grantham [/news/rer regina-grantham

Regina Grantham, associate professor emerita of communication disorders and sciences, passed away Jan. 13.

New accreditat begins for the School of Educatior [/news/de id=ddf447

The change is expected to help the state's largest teaching school continue to grow.

SUNY Cortland educator named SUNY Accessibi Fellow [/news/su cortland-educator-named-suny-accessibi fellow]

Carrie Rood joins a SUNY-wide fellowship to help campuses support students with disabilities.

Denise DuBrava honored for outstandi service [/news/de dubrava-honored-for-outstandi service]

The 10-year employee was recognized on Dec. 13 during SUNY Cortland's Service Awards Ceremony.

Senior art major to exhibit in Cazenovia [/news/senior-art-major-to-exhibit-in-cazenovia

Chloe Loewenguth will defend her senior portfolio Dec. 6 at the Stone Quarry Art Park.

Cortland holds off Endicott, 17-9, in NCAA Second Round [/news/de id=5c3b80

Cortland (11-0) will face Springfield in the third round on Saturday, Dec. 7.

National honor nets teacher a $25,000 prize [/news/nat honor-nets-teacher-a-25-000-prize]

Emily Litz ’10 was one of less than 50 teachers to win a Milken Educator Award this year.

A surprise Emmy win thrills recent Red Dragon grad [/news/a-surprise-emmy-win-thrills-recent-reddragon-grad]

Shannon Imbornoni ’21 got the award for her work as an associate producer on MLB Tonight.

Internatio photo contest 2024 winners announce [/news/int photo-contest-2024-winners-announce

International Programs has also unveiled the “Photo ID Contest” raffle prize winner.